Hi Jim:

Sorry we missed you. Just went over the status of the environmental issues as well as outstanding work to be done (soil assessment/cleanup). Reminder of the on site and off site soil impacts. Also, verification of closure still needed to document closure of two remaining on-site waste management units [tied to their Waste Registration, EPA TXD 980865109 (TCEQ SWR No. 80951)]. I think he will be able to gather the additional verification information the TCEQ needs to properly document closure of the two WMUs at the facility at this time, but nothing else. Mr. Damesworth will likely approach an environmental attorney to discuss PRP liability issues for the soil cleanup (on-site/off-site contamination issues).

Ellie

Hi Jim:

As mentioned, Mr. Robert Damesworth wanted to meet with me next Tuesday @9 am at our offices to informally talk about the environmental status of the FJ Doyle PCB Salvage site. It sounds to me as if Mr. Damesworth (and the school) are still interested in assisting the current property owner (Danny Doyle) with placing a concrete parking lot on the property (as a partial remedy?). Prior investigations identified widespread PCB contamination onsite and to offsite residential property and drainage ditches. The on-site areas also have metals impacts/PCB impacts, etc.

Mr. Doyle continues to be non-responsive to my last comment letter (issued January 2016..attached). I've been at a point where the TCEQ must initiate lining the case up for referral to our region office to initiate a compliance evaluation investigation (..1st step in our enforcement process) due to non-responsiveness of the current owner.

You are welcome to listen in...If you have a number I can patch you/others in. I've attached the last comment letter I have issued to Mr. Doyle on the site as an FYI.
